If you're passionate about music, if you have a talent for acting, or if you have the tenacity and drive to be a successful sound engineer, can you turn that into a rewarding career? Absolutely!

Creative Industries is one of the UK's fastest growing sectors. The skills learned on our courses are hugely sought after by employers, because they combine digital and technical expertise with practical artistic skills and employability skills.

#weareAyrshireCollege

With state-of-the-art AVID approved SSL recording studios, "Rockpool" Rehearsal Studios, dance studio and in-house upgraded theatre with new technical productions gantry, Ayrshire College provides creative students unrivalled access to industry standard facilities.

Studying music with us means you'll rehearse in our very own recording studio and have the opportunity to record and release your own material via our record label, Sun Turtle Records.

Did you know?

You'll take part in College gigs as well as local gigs.

Studying Acting and Production Arts will give you in-depth knowledge and the chance to develop transferrable skills, make industry contacts and find industry work placements.

To work in a creative industry, you'll need to stand out from the crowd and demonstrate your passion and dedication to potential employers. This can help you obtain work experience and use it as a stepping stone to further your career.

“ The rewards of being self-employed are, you get to be your own boss. If you don't like how some things are working out, you can change it. I love the responsibility. Also you can choose your own work, when you work, and ultimately you are doing something you love.”

Krystal Johnstone,
Managing Director STR Productions

What are employers looking for?

As well as being passionate about music or performing arts, you need an understanding of the industry and how it's changing

You need to be able to manage your time and meet deadlines

You need to enjoy meeting new people and be able to interact with them professionally

Most of all we need creative people who have the confidence and enthusiasm to contribute ideas and never give up!
